

REVISED table of IML Final Exam Times
(as of June 19, 2012. Please check back for updates during the week.)

Please find below the (hopefully final) list of exam times for the oral exam in the course Introduction to Mathematical Logic.

Those whose name is on the list below have had their mandatory course credit homework approved. If you believe that your name should be on the list, but is not (i.e., you had your homework approved, but your name was left out), please contact me immediately (asgert@math.ku.dk).

The meeting time indicates when you must have arrived to draw a question. Then you will be given 25-30 minutes of preparation time, after which the exam begins. The exam lasts 25-30 minutes, and follows the usual format of oral exams in the Department of Mathematics.

You are free to choose if you want to speak English or Danish at the exam. You are also welcome to swap times with one another, as long as you inform me.

Please show up well in advance of the meeting time listed, so that in case someone before you fails to show up, we may move up the start time for your exam.
